

Cinematography Questions

1. You loaded a mag with film but never shot any of it, this film is called...?
2. With the SR II camera, the pressure plate is located in the magazine.
3. When you using an incident light meter you measure in...?
4. When you load a mag you load with the emulsion facing...
5. What is the film format which corresponds with a 1.66:1 aspect ratio?
6. What is the color temperature of tungsten light?
7. When you using a reflective light meter you measure in...?
8. What is the aspect ratio which corresponds with the HD format?
9. What filter converts daylight film for use with 3200K lamps?
10. What is the aspect ratio that corresponds with the R16mm film format?
11. What filter would you use with tungsten film shot under daylight sources?
12. The number of different shades of grey from pure black to pure white a medium (either film or digital) is able to render is called...?
13. The metallic piece located in the mag that presses the film flat against the gate is called the...?
14. What is the aspect ratio which corresponds with the 35mm film format?
15. The mechanism that advances the film frame by frame is called a...?
16. The knob that manually moves the mechanism forward is called a...?
17. The element that absorbs light that otherwise would bounce on the back of the negative is called the...? (The sleek part of the strip)

18. The chamber that film is loaded into is called a...?
19. The adjustable opening in the lens that controls the amount of light reaching the film is called the...?
20. The 80A filter takes off how many stops?